Lomonosov M. Yu., Rozhko V. O. Albanian (?) Chameria: the myths of elites and the reality of field

Chameria is the region in Northern Greece, that was inhabited by Albanian ethnic minority after The Second World War. Often it is considered as the part of so-called Ethnic Albania side by side with Kosovo, Preševó valley (in Serbia), South Montenegro and Western Macedonia. Nationalistic politicians, journalists and historians create many myths of Chameria. The expedition of graduated students of Perm State and Sankt-Petersburg State universities was organised in the main centres of historic Chameira in August 2009. The strictly Greek ethnic and national identity of Albanian-Greek bilingual population was fixed. Albanian migrants in Greece consider the region as alien land. These facts contradict the discourse of Chameria not only in political texts, but also in academic albanological ones.
